INTRODUCTION

This paper with the title: A Brief History of Badi’i and Development aim to focus attention on the views of the Ulama Al Balaga terms of Balagatul Badi’i, to identify some way forward through the different opinion of the Ulama in their process of developing the canon of Badi, hoping Allah in his infinite mercy provide me with his guide to be justice to the topic. The paper falls into parts. The first part, deal with Introduction the general terms of Balaga and its purpose, followed by Badi’i terms, then Impact and the Importance of Balaga follow by the canon of Badi’i between the past and the present scholars views and end with conclusion.

Definition of Terms

Balaga is described as the art of discourse and is therefore crucial for writers or speakers to communicate effectively and engagingly with their audience. ... Balaga is the art of persuasion in writing or speaking. Balaga is important because, for our writing or speaking to be effective, it must be persuasive. Balaga describes as intellectual and good speaking [1]. Balaga is described as a good communication don for a purposes [2]. In another meaning of Balaga is described as the art of discourse and is therefore crucial for writers or speakers to communicate effectively and engagingly with their audience [3]. The importance of the discipline is reflected in the theoretical works that it has continued to stimulate since the Ancient Greeks and the publication of Aristotle’s Balaga. Although nowadays the discipline has lost its prominence in high school and university curricula it once enjoyed, the use of the right Balagaal strategies is fundamental for authors to reach their goal of persuading those who are reading or listening that the arguments put forward make sense. Although the primary domain of Balaga is obviously politics, every speech or writing act could be defined as Balagaal as it attempts to convey a particular meaning to a particular audience.

The purpose of Balaga

Every author has a purpose for writing—even if that purpose is to simply fulfill a writing assignment. A Balagaal purpose seeks to do a bit more; it seeks to persuade an audience, seeks to manipulate the way that audience thinks about the given subject [4].

Affect, as a term of Balaga, is the responsive, emotional feeling that precedes cognition. Affect differs from pathos as described by Aristotle as one of the modes of proof and pathos as described by Jasinski as an emotional appeal because it is “the response we have to things before we label that response with feelings or emotions.”

In further exploring this term, scholars recognized affect’s Balagaal role in literature, photography, marketing and memory. In 2012, Rogers described how author W. E. B. Du Bois used the structure of his work, The Souls of Black Folk, to affect his audience into feeling shame. In 2016, Brunner and Deluca proposed the term affective winds to describe “the force of images that moves people to engage and interact by exploring the affective potency of visual arguments. Affective winds were part of the Balagaal persuasiveness of images shared through social media. In a different sense, Harold described how the Target Corporation’s advertising used aura and affect to democratize the appearance of some products. Affect has also been identified as a conduit through which Balagaal memories can be internalized.

Drawing from philosophy, some Balagaal studies of affect have followed Martin Heidegger’s articulation of “Dasein” which posits “affect” as the ground of reason. Others follow poststructuralist and post-Heideggerian insights to follow affect’s influence on Balagaal canons and digital Balaga.

Impact and the Importance of Balaga

Today, Balaga is used by members of both parties to encourage voting for a particular candidate or to support specific issues. Examples of Balaga include: speeches often use Balaga to evoke emotional responses in the audience.

- Important of Exigence Balagaal situations

In Balaga, exigence is an issue, problem, or situation that causes or prompts someone to write or speak. ... "In every Balagaal situation," said Bitzer, "there will be at least one controlling exigence which functions as the organizing principle: it specifies the audience to be addressed and the change to be affected." As a Students you don’t need to memorize the five canons of classical Balaga either—invention, arrangement, style, memory, and delivery—although studying what each of those canons might mean for the composing processes of today’s student writers might initiate provocative conversation about paragraphing the, sentence structure, use of repetition, and format of final product [5].

What students need to know about Balaga is in many ways what they know already about the way they interact with others and with the world. Teaching the connections between the words they work with in the classroom and the world outside it can challenge and engage students in powerful ways as they find out how much they can use what they know of the available means of Balaga as persuasion to learn more [6].

The canon of Badi’i between the past and the present scholars

Literature activities in the past at Cairo before Muhammad Sami Albarudi were been using some canon of Badi’i in their poems and other things.

In the seventh century AH the Arabs use Badiiyat in their poems which takes two or more canon of Badi’. Tamsil or tamsil and tauriya such as alif yatu bin Malik fi nahwu, and shadibiyaa fil qira’at. The first scholar that start using the canon in the past is Aliyu bin Usman bin Suleman Alarbali died in the year 670 AH he established the use of the canon of Badi’i in the more than 36 baitun, and each baitun take deferent canon of Badi’. he began his baitu with Qazli and with madahu the known person. As he use a canon jinasun lafzi [7].

Then follow by Safiyu Deen Hull in year 750AH he use is Badi’i fi Madahi Mustapha Sallahu Alaihi Wasallam which rich 145 baitun with 150 canon of Badi’i
